A PLEASANT RIDE

THROUGH GREEN FIELDS, AMID LEAFY TREES, ALONG A BEAUTIFUL RIVER, "IN APPLE BLOSSOM TIME."

That Fairmont is getting quite cosmopolitan has no better evidence than that shown by the excellence and extensiveness of her street car service. Since the extension of the line to Middleton and the inauguration of the transfer system, one can go more than twenty miles, in less than two hours, and that for thirty cents. Starting at Watson, being transferred at Tenth street, Fifth ward, and continuing through West Chester, Monongah and Everson to Middleton, makes a most delightful trip. Many Fairmonters do not realize what a pleasant outing this gives. Passing through the Peacock Farm, down by the Joe and Harry Fleming place, coming again to the river at Jayenne, one beholds some of the prettiest scenery imaginable. The fields at this time in the year are covered with a beautiful sod, the trees are getting out in full leaf, and the hills are steep enough to break the monotony, thus giving a change of scene every minute. The car line winds along the bank of the West Fork, and the motorman takes you around those curves in a fashion to make you think you are actually taking the ride of your life. About the time the highest rate of speed is attained the shrill whistle announces that you are nearing Monongah, but in the ten cent limit, is the Park. This will open for the first time next Sunday. Hundreds of people will be there and will have a good time.

But when you get that far you must go on to Middleton. Why is it called Middleton? One trip there will convince you. On your left across the river, as you go, is Highland, with its gardens standing on their rims, while across the river to your right, is Chiefton. Middleton is on a peninsula in a very picturesque spot. Take it all in all a round trip on our local street car line is a real treat, and Fairmonters who have not taken it have missed a great deal.

PEARL PIN

SAID TO BE WORTH 225 POUNDS TRADED TO AN ACTRESS BY A SWINDLER.

LONDON, May 13.—An American, giving his name as Julian Ralph, was charged in the Marlborough Street Police Court yesterday with obtaining a diamond ring valued at 125 pounds fraudulently from an actress named Ethel Clinton. The prisoner met the girl on the Oceanic. He said he was a war reporter and later induced Miss Clinton to change her ring for a worthless pearl pin, according to the charge. It is alleged that the pin was worth 225 pounds, and had been given to him by Grand Duke Boris, of Russia.

The friends of the late journalist, whose name the prisoner claims, testified that none of Ralph's sons was named Julian. The prisoner was committed for trial.
